LogistiCare Signs Multi-Year Renewal with Information Access Management (IAM)

ATLANTA -- Information Access Management, Inc. (IAM), a leading provider of Web-based Talent management systems, today announced a three-year contract renewal with Logisticare, who ranked #311 on Inc. Magazine's 500 list of the nation's fastest-growing enterprises.

The agreement calls for IAM to provide Logisticare with continued support with all aspects of staffing and recruiting, accesses to multiple media sources, as well as provide a seamless integration with their payroll provider and HRIS system.

"The LIFE system has been a "Lifesaver" for us, and as we have grown nationally it has provided information and access to markets we would not have otherwise used," said Jenny Southern, Director of Human Resources for Logisticare. "The system has allowed us to eliminate virtually all the paperwork and we are looking forward to working with IAM in the coming years and utilizing more of the system to continue to help us become even more effective with our talent management."

It is exciting to see our clients get national recognition and know we were able to assist them in their growth.

"We are excited to continue our relationship with Logisticare," said Mark Emery, CEO of IAM. "The LIFE system's ability to provide total talent management solutions to companies at any size and in any business climate continues to be proven. As the economy continues to turn and companies grow, we are committed to assisting them with managing and growing their human capital more profitably."

The LIFE system is a Technology-enabling Solution that integrates and strengthens all Talent Management Components, providing employers and human resource outsourcers (HRO's) alike with a technology that eliminates over 80% of the administrative processes, greatly reduces hard dollar costs while increasing operational profits.
